

NEWS ARTICLE

10/30/15

304

Media Writing

By: Peyton Newlon

Aspiring Journalist

News Article

JONESBORO, Ark. - Trick or Treat with the Greeks, Oct. 30 from 4-6 p.m. in Centennial Hall in the Reng Student Union.

The fraternities and sororities of Arkansas State University each put booths up individually consisting of games, activities and candy. The community children came decked out in costumes and got their candy while being safe and inside.

Featured games at this event include: pin the stem on the pumpkin, monster-mash cake walk, creepy go fish, spider web trivia and roll-the-dice mania. The children all were smiling.

One child, Stefon Amos, said, "I was so excited for this, I didn't know what to expect but I love it now."

The Greeks said they enjoyed this event as well.

Allie Derryberry, a member of Alpha Omicron Pi, said, "It was so much fun to see all of the kids playing games. I loved dressing up as Minnie Mouse and having kids come up to me saying 'Hey Minnie!'"

Some of the Greek workers did not think about how this event would turn out because it was their first time participating. Rachel McCallister said she isn't truly a fan of children but when they were in costumes they weren't half bad; she would like to rent a kid for an hour to take them trick-or-treating because of their cuteness.

The radio broadcasted the event so it did have a crowd. Howl even was there for the children to take pictures with.

-30-

Sources:

Child - Stefon Amos

Allie Derryberry - allie.derryber@smail.astate.edu - (870) 377-1168

Rachel McCallister - rachel.mccalis@smail.astate.edu - (501) 766-3084